

OFFICIALLY AMAZING

Dear Syeda,

22 March 2021

Guinness World Records / World Memory Championship records

It gives me great pleasure to confirm that, as a result of your impressive performance at the World Memory Championship in December 2020, you have established a new Guinness World Records title. I can also confirm that your achievement will be listed in the upcoming Guinness World Records 2022 edition.

The record is as follows:

Most historical dates recalled in five minutes

On 19 December 2020, memory athlete Syeda Kisa Zehra (Pakistan) successfully memorized 241 fictitious dates in 5 minutes at the 29th World Memory Championship. The competition was held from 18 to 20 December 2020 in Karachi, Sindh, Pakistan. In this contest, competitors had 5 minutes to memorize as many numerical historic or future (fictional) dates as possible and 20 minutes' recall time to link the correct date to the correct fictional event.

As with all Guinness World Records title holders, you will shortly receive a certificate for this record, featuring a truncated version of this text.

Congratulations on both your success at the event and your establishment of a world record. I will be pleased to list your achievements in the book (publication: September 2021), knowing that it will inspire other young people to strive for success in whatever it is they do.

Welcome to the GWR family – you are Officially Amazing!

Yours sincerely,

Craig Glenday
Editor-in-Chief
craig.glenday@guinnessworldrecords.com